What We Do

The Virginia Interfaith Center for Public Policy (VICPP) advocates economic and social justice in Virginia's policies and practices through education, prayer and action.

Founded in 1982, VICPP is the largest advocacy voice of the interfaith community in Virginia. VICPP works at the grassroots level through religious congregations and regional chapters to promote public policies that serve the common good. Activities include advocacy, fostering dialogue to bridge divisions, and sponsoring programs to educate the public and state officials on critical issues.

Current priorities include issues such as expanding access to healthcare, wage and worker justice, criminal justice reform and welcoming all people to Virginia.
